Police: Stay out of water while drinking

Drinking and driving boats, as well as drinking and swimming, have led to several victims drowning this summer, and police Thursday urged citizens to stop the pattern.

Sgt. Blake Gilmore of the Massachusetts State Police Underwater Recovery Unit said using common sense can lead to a safer summer in the sun.

In the wake of recent drownings and several near-drownings in the last 10 days, Gilmore said swimmers could avoid catastrophe when boozing.

Drinking in severe heat leads to dehydration, which causes people to make poor decisions, he said.

Using empty coolers as buoys if someone falls overboard, and staying out of the water when intoxicated were just a few of the sergeant's recommendations.

Gilmore said several state agencies, including local law enforcement and the U.S. Coast Guard, were patrolling the waters to make sure swimmers are safe and not driving boats while drinking.

End of the crusade to keep churches?

◗ Cardinal allows for sale of churches in Boston area ◗ Group wants to appeal decision to Vatican ◗ Some parishioners are losing faith in efforts

Opponents of church closings vowed Thursday to fight the Archdiocese of Boston's move to ready six area churches for sale.

Cardinal Sean P. O'Malley announced the changes for the churches Thursday.

"I've spoken to each of the six parishioner groups [Thursday] morning and everyone one of them is ready to take the appeal … to highest level necessary," said Peter Borre, chair of the Council of Parishes, a lay Catholic group that lends support to closed churches. "What he's doing is deconsecrating six churches so he can sell them off as condos or parking lots."

Among the relegated churches are Our Lady of Mount Carmel in East Boston, Star of the Sea in Quincy and Our Lady of Lourdes in Revere.

O'Malley's decision means the churches will no longer be used for Catholic worship, any remaining sacred items will be removed and the buildings can be sold for use in an "appropriate and dignified manner." The funds from a sale will be used for direct support of parishes in the archdiocese.

The move comes months after O'Malley solicited input from Catholics about the future of the churches.

He said the move is needed for the archdiocese's "healing and rebuilding."

▶ Parishioner Benny Tauro stands outside of Our Lady of Carmel Church in East Boston, which the archdiocese announced it will be selling.

'Second home' to faithful

Since 1952 when Benny Tauro moved to East Boston from Italy he's gone to Our Lady of Mount Carmel church.

On Thursday, as the 78-year-old prepared a portion of the building for a yard sale, he described the church as his second home.

Parishioners like Tauro still hold Sunday prayer service there despite it being shuttered by the archdiocese in 2004.

But with word that it could now soon be put up for sale, Tauro doesn't know what to do.

"What can I say? There is nothing I can do about it," he said. "It's their property."

MassDOT secretary to leave

MassDOT Transportation Secretary and CEO Jeffrey Mullan will step down in the fall, but the move reportedly has nothing to do with recent controversy over Big Dig troubles.

Boston.com reported Mullan had plans to leave months prior to an alleged scandal surrounding a fallen tunnel light fixture.

Mullan plans to return to the private sector, according to reports, to earn a bigger salary. METRO

Bin Laden planned 9/11 anniversary attack

NEW YORK. Osama bin Laden was planning on attacking the U.S. on the 10th anniversary of Sept. 11, the Wall Street Journal reported Thursday. The plans were only in the discussion phase, according to communications Navy SEALs seized from his compound in Pakistan this spring — but bin Laden was already assembling teams of militants. FBI sets its sights on News Corp.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation will investigate allegations that Rupert Murdoch's News Corp. tried to hack into the phone records of victims of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks on the United States, the agency said on Thursday.

"We're looking into allegations raised by the letter by Peter King yesterday," said an FBI source, asking not to be identified.

News Corp declined to comment on the FBI probe.

The Daily Mirror reported that News of the World journalists offered to pay a New York police officer to retrieve the private phone records of victims of the Sept. 11 attacks. The Daily Mirror, citing an unidentified source, said journalists wanted the phone numbers of the dead as well as details of the calls they made and received in the days leading to the attacks.

Murdoch last week shut down the News of the World, Britain's top-selling Sunday tabloid, on a growing firestorm over allegations grew that its journalists had illegally accessed voicemails of thousands of people, from child murder victims to the families of Britain's war dead.

Clemens' perjury case is a mistrial

WASHINGTON. The perjury trial of former Major League Baseball pitcher Roger Clemens ended in a mistrial in the second day of witness testimony after the prosecution showed the jury evidence in violation of a court order.

U.S. District Judge Reggie Walton said that he's considering barring further prosecution of Clemens on double-jeopardy grounds. He set a hearing for Sept. 2 on whether to let the case proceed.

Clemens, a seven-time Cy Young Award winner, is accused of lying to Congress about his use of steroids. Prosecutors said that Andy Pettitte, a former teammate, would testify about how Clemens told him in 1999 or 2000 that he had used HGH. Clemens told Congress that Pettitte misheard the conversation.

There's nothing stinky about this Pooh

'Winnie the Pooh'
Directors: Stephen J. Anderson, Don Hall
Cast: Craig Ferguson, John Cleese, Jim Cummings
Rating: G
Grade: ❶❶❶❶❶

"Winnie the Pooh" is truly refreshing in a summer dominated by overdone, overhyped, special-effects-mangled blockbusters. There's a difference between something classic and just another remake. This "Pooh" is the pitch-perfect example of a new classic.

It's pure, yet entertaining for any age. It's every bit as traditional and innocent as the "Winnie the Pooh" cartoons and books you knew as a kid. At a little over an hour, this is the perfect film to take your favorite little squirt and initiate a new generation.

Hermione's last stand

Emma Watson

- Emma Watson bids farewell to the character who carried her into adulthood
- What's up next for the 'Harry Potter' actress

From the age of 9, British actress Emma Watson has lived and breathed "Harry Potter" — having starred in all eight of the films as Potter's close friend, the bookish Muggle-born Hermione Granger. While Watson gave a tearful speech at the final film's premiere in London last week, as "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2" gets released, the actress is also eagerly awaiting her post-Potter life — even if she and Hermione have basically become the same person.

What was your last scene as Hermione?
The last shot we did was this strange moment where we dive into the fireplace in the Ministry of Magic. It was actually for Part 1, not Part 2, and so Dan, Rupert and I one by one jumped onto these blue safety mats. It seemed like a strange scene to go out on but actually [director David Yates] made the point that we were leaping into the unknown.

Quoted

"Young girls are sold this idea that they have to be this princess and be all delicate and fragile. It's bulls—." WATSON

What character traits do you feel you share with Hermione?
Not so much now, but I guess an earnestness, eager to please and do the right thing. Terrified of ever getting into trouble.

Could you see yourself singing on Broadway like your co-star Daniel Radcliffe?
Dan is so ballsy. That kid, amazing. I would love to do something on Broadway. I think I need to pluck up more courage, but I love to sing.

Now that this series has ended, do you have a favorite out of the lot?
The last two, for me, really stand apart from all of the rest. The quality is amazing. The role and the depth and how much darker they get gave me a chance to stretch myself as an actress and really feel like I was an actress and like I was acting.

How is fame treating you these days?
It became easier to handle once I accepted it. I feel fortunate in that I've never really known what it's like to have total freedom and anonymity. It's not as though I had it and then all of a sudden it got taken away from me. It's something that I grew up knowing.

The characters in "Harry Potter" endure so many tests of their bravery. Have you had an experience like that in your own life?
I feel like young girls are sold this idea that they have to be this princess and be all delicate and fragile. It's bulls—. I identified much more with being a warrior and being a fighter.

Looking into the future

What's next for you?
It's obviously scary — change is always scary, but I feel like I'm entering a new chapter, like I get a fresh start, and there's something really exciting about that. I have just made a film called "The Perks of Being a Wallflower," which was just an incredible experience. I had the best six weeks. Having an experience like that outside of "Harry Potter" was what convinced me that acting really was what I should be doing.

So are you going back to Brown?
I'm going to Oxford in the fall to study English for a year. I haven't left Brown. I'm still enrolled at Brown but I'm doing my third year abroad, studying at home, abroad for me. I'll go back to the States for my last year. I took a semester off but I'm no further behind. I'm still technically going into my third year.

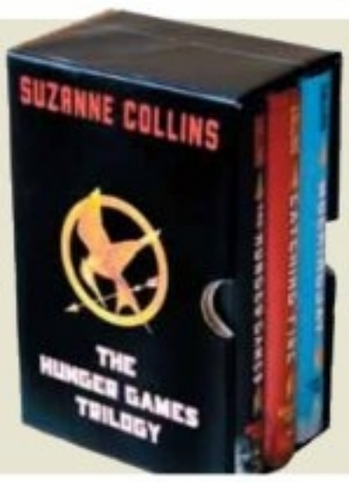
What's the next 'Harry Potter'?

Now that he's put down his wand, who will inherit the fans? 'Twilight' is almost done, so what's next?

'The Hunger Games'

Premise: Every year, one boy and one girl must fight to the death in a televised event, brought to you by the Capitol, the evil government in charge of the land of Panem (formerly known as North America, pre-apocalypse). Suzanne Collins' young adult best-seller, from the same publisher as "Potter," is the first in a trilogy.



The movies: The first is filming now. Jennifer Lawrence, Oscar nominee, will play our heroine, Katniss Everdeen, while Gary Ross, of "Seabiscuit," directs.
Chances of taking off: High. Collins' themes (reality TV, kids at war) are relevant to adults, and the kids will enjoy the world created.
Release date: March 23, 2012

'Snow White and the Huntsman'

Premise: Inspired by "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," the plot finds our heroine cast out by a wicked witch and ordered to die at the hands of a hunter. It's the first of a planned series.

The movies: "Twilight" star Kristen Stewart leaves one franchise for another, playing a tough version of Snow White. But we're more into the dwarves: Eddie Izzard and Bob Hoskins are among the seven.

Chances of taking off: Fair. We love the cast, and it opens a few months before another Snow White project (starring Julia Roberts), but do young audiences care about classic fairy tales? Ask the producers of the box-office bomb "Red Riding Hood."
Release date: June 1, 2012

COURTESY OF TWENTIETH CENTURY FOX

▶ "Percy" might be a sleeper hit.

'Percy Jackson and the Olympians'

Premise: A kid wakes up one morning, in modern day North America, and discovers his dad is the Greek god Poseidon — and mythological creatures are on the attack. Rick Riordan's series, started in 2005, has five books so far.
The movies: The first — subtitled "The Lightning Thief" and directed by "Potter" vet Chris Columbus — was released last year. The second — subtitled "The Sea of Monsters" — sends our hero on a nautical mission and is in the planning stages.
Chances of taking off: Define "taking off." Despite a lack of buzz, the first film made more than $200 million worldwide. Last month, the studio locked down star Logan Lerman and hired a director for part two.
Release date: Not announced yet.

'The Hobbit'

Premise: Written by J.R.R. Tolkien in 1937, this prequel to "Lord of the Rings" finds a young Bilbo Baggins battling orcs and spiders to save a kingdom. He also encounters some precious old friends.

The movies: Director Peter Jackson is back. Ian McKellan is back. Orlando Bloom is back. Gollum is back. This is (a reported) $500 million well spent. There'll be two films: "The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey" and "The Hobbit: There and Back Again."
Chances of taking off: The Blood of Numenor is all but spent. But these movies will be massive successes.
Release dates: "An Unexpected Journey": Dec. 14, 2012; "There and Back Again": Dec. 13, 2013.

- 'Curb Your Enthusiasm' is back for its eighth season
- Star Jeff Garlin dishes about life on and off the set

GETTY IMAGES

In between interviews and an acupuncture appointment, Jeff Garlin wasn't able to tell us too much about the eighth season of "Curb Your Enthusiasm," on which he plays Larry David's irritable manager. The 49-year-old actor and comedian did, however, spill some tidbits about starring on the Emmy- and Golden Globe-winning show.

FOR THE COMPLETE INTERVIEW, VISIT WWW.METRO.US/TV

What can we expect to see this season?
I hope that people will think it's funny. I can't really give anything away.

How about your character? Any major upheavals?
There's actually one big upheaval. There's one big change for my character early in the season.

What's changed over the past eight seasons, and what has remained the same?
What's stayed the same is that we improvise, we have a good time and we don't believe the hype. What's changed is the shows have become more dense as the years go on. There's more things going on in each episode.

Have any of Larry's neuroses rubbed off on you?
No. It's all pretend. We don't blur a line between off-camera and on-camera. He's been a big influence on me, personally, but that's not the character that people see.

Do you curse as much as your onscreen wife, Susie Essman?
Yes, I actually do curse a lot, more than I'd like. People come up to me on the street and say, "My wife is just like Susie," and the wife is standing right there, and they're proud of it. I'm like, "Are you kidding me?"

Is your character based on anyone from your own life?
No, I didn't base him on anyone — I just started doing him.

I hear that you might play Babe Ruth in an upcoming movie. Is that true?
That's not true. I was offered that role and a friend of mine at the time was directing it. I said, "Sure, I'm interested," and the money never came together. And also, I'm dropping weight, so if they want me to be Babe Ruth, they had better hurry up.

Art

Isolina Limonta
Through August 7
Galeria Cubana
450 Harrison Ave., Boston
Free, 617-292-2822
www.lagaleriacubana.com
This Cuban artist's paintings are hypnotic and compelling, filled with vibrantly colored, abstract, often faceless human figures whose insides twist into spirals, rippling waves in psychic sympathy/conflict with the environment around them. This surrealism feels sort of psychedelic to us — but apparently it comes, at least in part, from the influence of Santeria.

The band, composed of a trombone, accordion, guitar and various woodwinds, plays a genre-flauting mixture of pop, jazz and classical. Citing both Schoenberg and the Beastie Boys as influences, they're capable of wild changes in mood and tone, switching from amelodic to melodic like one switches gears on a bike — and yet it feels cohesive. Awesome.

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

Jonah Hill: Superskinny

Hill on Wednesday

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

▶ Hill, just last year.

This is Jonah Hill. I know — you did a double take too, right? The formerly chubby comedian showed up at Wednesday's ESPY awards virtually unrecognizable. The 27-year-old told the L.A. Times he was unsure how much weight he's dropped, but credited his new physique to working out and eating healthy. "It's not fun," he said. "I wouldn't say it's the most fun endeavor I've ever taken on in my life, but it's important. And I'm enjoying it. If I eat something unhealthy now, I kind of feel a little weird and my body hurts."

Hill has two big movies coming out — this year's "Moneyball" staring Brad Pitt and "21 Jump Street" in 2012. This means for the next 600 or so days, every article we read about these movies will mention Hill's weight loss. Welcome to your future, friends.

Hot new couple alert

Um, I love this gossip: Apparently John Stamos and Renee Zellweger are dating! Zellweger, who split from Bradley Cooper in March, and Stamos were spotted enjoying a romantic trip to Disneyland in California on Monday. "They looked really close and both very happy," a source tells Us Weekly. "They were trying to stay under the radar, but were having a great time laughing." Trying to keep a low profile worked better for Zellweger than Stamos: Several fans recognized him, asking an incognito Zellweger if she could take a picture of them with Stamos.

Considering how beautifully preserved the two are (Stamos is 47 while Zellweger is 42), I'm guessing they met at the embalming shop?

Talking points

Olivia Wilde: A little wobbly

Despite being linked to a number of Hollywood bachelors, Olivia Wilde says she's happy spending some time alone after her divorce from Italian prince Tao Ruspoli. "The trauma of the whole thing has been humbling, and for the first time, I'm a little bit wobbly," Wilde tells Marie Claire. "But I think it's very healthy to spend time alone. You need to know how to be alone and not be defined by another person."

▶ Olivia Wilde

Miranda Kerr's baby name

Miranda Kerr named her and Orlando Bloom's son in part after a deceased ex-boyfriend, she tells the Daily Telegraph. One of baby Flynn's middle names, Christopher, was chosen in honor of Kerr's first boyfriend, Christopher Middlebrook, who died in a car accident as a teenager. "Chris and I had been dating for two years," she says. "After he died, I wrote him a letter that said I hoped to name my first child after him in some way. I told Orlando and he was the one who said he'd be happy to do that. Orlando's a good guy." His full name is Flynn Christopher Blanchard Copeland Bloom.

COURTESY OF COMPANY ONE

▶ Hampton Fluker and Ruby Rose Fox deliver on that sex and violence that Sandberg-Zakian was talking about.

'1001' layers in Company One's latest

New play takes a classic Arabian tale and puts it in the middle of modern day Manhattan
Director talks about the meanings of Eastern themes

A distrustful king marries a new woman every night, beheading her each morning, but one bride tells him a story that isn't over when dawn rises. The king cannot resist the suspense, and she lives for 1,001 nights.

This legend inspires Company One's latest play, "1001," which remixes a classic Arabian tale with modern settings and an interwoven story structure.

"The action of the play goes everywhere from the medieval Persian setting of 'Arabian Nights' to present-day New York City to the future," says director Megan Sandberg-Zakian. "It has this falling into a well of stories feeling."

Quoted

"As stories that we love tend to have, this one has lots of sex and violence."
DIRECTOR MEGAN SANDBERG-ZAKIAN

The show examines the post-9/11 landscape in America and our relationship with the Middle East, but without preaching, explains the director.

"We're both seduced and repelled by the exotic images we have of the East. The play is interested in how that may lead to tension and conflict and violence," she says.

The set and costumes transform from clean, contemporary, and minimalistic to the lush, palm trees, palaces and romance imagery of the medieval Islamic Golden Age.

Sandberg-Zakian admits that "1001" is complicated. She hints at an apocalyptic event, but doesn't want to give too much away to audiences.

"As stories that we love tend to have, this one has lots of sex and violence," she promises. "It's intellectual, but it's also really funny."

Lives intertwined

The play enfolds through several interconnected stories — think of Paul Haggis' 2004 Oscar winning film, "Crash." The actors take on as many as seven roles each.

The Costa artistic expression

- Nikka Costa is a girl gone wild with her latest videos
- Singer says US needs to relax attitude on censorship

She might have been in the music business since she was 5, courtesy of her father — the late, great producer Don Costa. She might well be Frank Sinatra's goddaughter, and maybe she grew up surrounded by music icons. But one thing about Nikka Costa is obvious: With her knock-your-socks-off funked-up soulful voice and fired-up spirit, this girl would have made it, regardless of her roots.

The singer has recently stocked her YouTube channel (Nikka's Box), with fun videos for her June-released R&B meets electro pop EP, "Pro*Whoa!"

For the lovely ballad, "Chase the Thrill," she recreated the shower scene from "Psycho." She boxes with members of her band in the vid for the EP's title track. But what's this shoutout titled "Streaking," where she is stark naked?

"America is so prudish. There's a bar over my boobs most of the time. Then there's one part where I walk away and the bar stays there and I go, 'Ooh ooh' — and pull it back across."
NIKKA COSTA

"America is so prudish," Costa says. "There's a bar over my boobs most of the time. Then there's one part where I walk away and the bar stays there and I go, 'Ooh ooh' — and pull it back across."

Don't get too excited though. Viewers do not get a quick flash of flesh.

"They get a blurred flash, which just goes to show you that America is retarded. In Europe they'd be like, 'Why is that bar there?' the whole time."

Bullets over boobs?

Don't get Nikka Costa started on censorial powers that are OK with a woman being killed, but not OK with bare boobs.

"They're OK with a murder, of course. They sell bullets at Wal-Mart," scoffs the feisty L.A.-based singer about the status quo. "Seriously, we thought about it for 10 seconds. It was at the end of doing the cheerleading video and we said, 'Yeah, let's do a naked one.' It truly took about four minutes to film, then it became a big deal."

Enough of the class warfare

RE: "EVIL TAXES, EVIL COMMUNISTS": "Idle ownership" is a loaded term from the class warfare handbook. It assumes that anyone with assets got it at the expense of someone else or inherited it. I assure you, with the exception of trust funds, there is nothing idle about ownership — nest eggs come from years and years of working and saving and doing without. Further, people will have little motivation to work hard, save and accumulate assets if the fruits of their efforts will be taxed away.
VIRGINIA RANDALL, VIA E-MAIL

Obama, king of his own castle

RE: "OBAMA, KING OF FUNDRAISING": Obama raised $86 million in just three months for ... yep, you guessed it, himself. If just half the time and effort politicians put into raising money for their re-election campaigns was instead purposed toward fixing the economy, perhaps then we never would have gotten to the low point we are at now.
RYAN CLEARY, VIA E-MAIL

We print so that you know

RE: "PRESIDENT OBAMA'S TRUE COLORS": Why did you print this idiot's letter? By giving voice to morons you propagate lunacy and make yourselves part of the problem. If you need to fill space, here's a novel idea — use ads! Society is better served with words of wisdom rather than this parade of dolts spouting nonsense everyday in the papers and, worse, in government.
JD DUCAS, SOUTHIE

Case in point: The revolution

The very fabric of being American is being shredded by sellouts and the power-hungry. Gay marriages should be outlawed altogether. The revolution will be televised.
LUIS FLORES, VIA E-MAIL

The aftermath of a tragedy

RE: "MISSING BOY FOUND DEAD IN DUMPSTER": By allegedly killing Leiby Kletzky, Levi Aron intentionally and consciously crossed the line between a human being and a mad animal and has to be dealt with accordingly. No human judges! No human jury! No lawyers! Kill him.
GLEB POSTERNAK, VIA E-MAIL

I wanted to send my prayers out to the Kletzky family. It is something you could not imagine happening in such a short period of time. Parents, keep an eye on your children at all times, they are not safe out there no matter what. BARBARA MURPHY, VIA E-MAIL

Unlikely pair of players leading Open

Thomas Bjorn only qualified for the British Open when other players withdrew because of injuries.

Tom Lewis is a 20-year-old amateur who earned his ticket to Royal St. George's by winning a qualifier.

But as Thursday ended at the Sandwich, England, course, there they were, atop the leaderboard with twin 5-under 65s.

"I promised myself today I would go out and focus on every single shot ahead of me and go after every single shot, and I did that," said Bjorn, who's tied for second twice at the Open. "Rolled in a few putts here and there, and it turned out to be a day of just feeling really solid with everything I did."

Miguel Angel Jimenez, Lucas Glover and Webb Simpson finished Thursday tied for second-best, with 4-under 66.

Lewis played his round with five-time champion Tom Watson — the source of his first name.

"Tom Watson was [my father's] hero, and I was the first son, so I was Tom," Lewis said Thursday.

ONE MORE FOR US

Americans seeming more and more like a team of destiny But Sunday's World Cup final won't be easy

The U.S. women's national soccer team is the unquestioned favorite going into Sunday's World Cup final.

But the showdown with Japan is anything but a coronation.

As destined as the Americans seem to take their first crown since that famous 1999 run, Japan is an impressive obstacle.

"It's amazing looking at each other and saying, 'We're in the final.'"
U.S. FORWARD ALEX MORGAN

The Japanese are playing with purpose — they know they embody the hopes of their earthquake-ravaged homeland. The Americans' big advantage is their strength and size, but Japan has beaten big, strong teams in Germany and Sweden.

Of course, neither of those squads had a striker like the 5-foot-11 Abby Wambach, who threatens to simply shrug off Japan's back-line defenders.

Second half starts Friday

THE DEAL:

The Red Sox open the second half Friday night at Tampa Bay (7:10 p.m., NESN, WEEI). Andrew Miller will be opposed by David Price, fresh off giving up Derek Jeter's 3,000th hit.

ANALYSIS:

Health is the key. Their lineup can be — and is — full of All-Stars. But they won't win the AL East with one-fifth of their preseason rotation intact.

4 David Ortiz has been suspended four games for his role in a July 8 brawl against the Orioles.

Adrian Gonzalez leads the Red Sox at the break with a .354 BA, 77 RBIs and 64 runs. David Ortiz is tops with 19 HRs.

Dustin Pedroia is hitting .284 halfway through.
